FORMS FOR BIBLIOGRAPHIES

Source used for bibliographical forms is: American Psychological Association. (2001). Publication manual of the American Psychological Association (5th ed.). Washington, DC: Author. Also note the arrangement of the author's name, and initials in the following bibliographical examples. Bibliographical information can be obtained from the on-line catalog, the title page of book, or journal table of contents.

EXAMPLES OF REFERENCES TO PERIODICALS

Journal article, one author:

Journal article, more than one author:

Journal supplement:

Abstract as original source:

Entire issue of a journal:

Periodical published annually:

Daily newspaper article, authored:

Daily newspaper article, no author:
EXAMPLES OF REFERENCES TO BOOKS

One author:

More than one author:

Group author as publisher:

Edited book:

Article or chapter in an edited book:

Chapter in a volume in a series:

EXAMPLES OF REFERENCES TO OTHER SOURCES

Book review:

Doctoral dissertation, abstracted in DAI and obtained from the university:

Proceedings of a meeting or symposia, article or chapter in an edited book:

Report from a university:

Videorecording:
Center for Health Policy and Management (Producer). (1999). For our patients, not for profit [Videorecording]. (Available from the Center for Health Policy and Management, Stony Brook, NY 11794-8402)